

POLITICAL WAR RAGES AS CONGRESS MEETS

ALL-TIME DEBT FIGURE IS SET BY GOVERNMENT

National Administration Closes Half of Fiscal Year

F.D.R. POLISHES UP BUDGET MESSAGE

Thirty and a Half Billion Is Public Debt At End of 1935

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The government closed 1935—half of the current fiscal year—with expenditures exceeding income by $1,879,631,192.

This deficit compared with the $3,281,982,000 deficit which President Roosevelt has estimated for the full fiscal year ending next June 30.

The public debt at the end of 1935 was $30,557,324,062.

This debt figure was an all-time high. It compared with $28,478,663,824 at the end of 1934.

The treasury's statement showed the government spent $3,781,660,702 in the July 1-Dec. 31 period, while its receipts were only $1,902,009,509.

For the full year receipts of $4,473,349,140 and expenditures of $7,375,324,062 had been forecast.

Of the half-year outlays $1,674,877,226 was attributed to "recovery" and relief, the remainder to general governmental operating costs.

Receipts show gain. The deficit was more than half the amount estimated for the full year, but the annual figures in 1935 were only $1,902,009,509, as against $3,281,982,000 in 1934.

On Dec. 31, $335,224,800—more than half—had been paid.

Current receipts are running slightly ahead of the $1,845,000,000 reported during the same period last year, despite a lagging of an estimated $200,000,000 in farm processing taxes.

Income taxes brought in $54,814,000 ahead of Dec. 31 to $134,000,000 ahead of last year. Miscellaneous internal revenue amounted to $974,000,000, or $320,000,000 ahead of last year.

JUDGE'S ORDER SUSPENDS RULE ON MOTOR FEES

Enforcement of Inspection Levy of $25 Restrained

AIMED AT EVADERS OF SALES TAX LAW

But It Also Hits Auto Owners Moving Into Ohio

Judge Dana F. Reynolds at Columbus restrained temporarily today enforcement of an automobile inspection law imposing a $25 fee on cars purchased outside Ohio.

Judge Reynolds curtailed enforcement by the highway patrol pending hearing of an injunction suit filed by Charles C. Janes, secretary of the State Automobile association.

Aimed at Law Evaders

The law, enacted last month, was aimed at Ohio residents seeking to avoid paying the three percent sales tax by purchasing automobiles outside the state.

As it is worded, however, the law also imposes the $25 fee on persons recently moved to Ohio who purchased their cars while residents of other states.

Janes contended the law attempts to regulate interstate commerce, thus violating the federal constitution, and also imposes a penalty as a license fee.

As a result of the injunction, the prohibitory measure is lifted, at least until disposition of the case.

Also Hit Law Observers

The inspection law, as it acted, served to impose not only a $25 fee on persons who went into another state to buy a car, in order to avoid payment of the sales tax, but also inflicted a similar penalty on an automobile owner who, for example, moved from Pennsylvania into Ohio to make his residence.

Since the action has been pending, many of these motorists in this district have been withholding purchases of license plates. They may buy plates now, auto club officials said, without being forced to pay a $25 fee.

Dramatic Course Planned In County

A course of instruction in dramatics will be given to representatives of granges, community clubs, P. T. A.'s, young people's groups, and other organizations which are interested in giving local talent plays.

R. B. Tom of the department of rural sociology of Ohio State university, will have charge of the three meetings of the course. The first meeting will be held in the city hall at Lisbon on Wednesday, Jan. 8, beginning promptly at 1:30 p. m. Any rural or urban group which is interested in the subject may send two representatives to the meeting.

SNELL HITS RECESS PENDING MESSAGE BY F.D.R. TONIGHT

Preliminary Blasts of Presidential Election Year Heard As Senate and House Open Sessions At Noon

BILLS PRESENTED BEFORE FLAREUP

Disputed Neutrality and Bonus Payment Measures Among First Introduced After Opening Gavel Sounds

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL, Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The political warfare of a presidential election year began raging from the convening of congress at noon today coincident with introduction of disputed neutrality and bonus payment bills.

Although both senate and house agreed unanimously to recess until evening for President Roosevelt's unusual report on "the state of the union," Representative Snell, the Republican leader, rebuked the plan.

"Will not this message stand the light of the usual mid-day sun?" He demanded while a theretofore jolly house listened seriously.

He contended the choice of a night delivery, which will make possible a wider radio audience, was a "cheap attempt" to use the message politically. He did not need to mention the warning presidential campaign for his auditors to know what he meant.

In contrast, the twenty-minute senate session was all decorum. The deaths of Senator Long of Louisiana and Senator Schall of Minnesota were regretted, Senator Benson of Minnesota was sworn; and Senator Glass of Virginia was eulogized in connection with his 78th birthday tomorrow. Then the senators recessed.

Cites "Lash of Executive"

Snell said he knew he had a right to object to the Democratic leader's request for unanimous agreement to recess, and: "I also well know that the present majority under the lash of the executive is prepared to break all precedents, as it has many times in the past, to carry out orders from the White House."

"In my judgment, if you yield to this order, you are not properly performing the duties of the majority in maintaining the dignity and prerogatives of the house of representatives."

The agreement was reached nevertheless. The clerk announced certificates of election had been issued for four new members, Verner W. Main (R-Mich) succeeding Harry M. Kimball; William B. Barry (D-Ny) succeeding William F. Brunner; Edward W. Curley (D-Ny) succeeding Anthony S. Griffin and Ed-

Theater Attractions

The mystery classic, "Seven Keys to Baldpate" (Earl Derr Biggers), will be the attraction Friday at the State theater. Gene Raymond is cast in the leading role of a successful writer of adventure stories, and Margaret Callahan new and rapidly rising young actress, formerly from Cleveland, has the role of the "lady in distress".

The mystery-drama with its amusing farce situations has long been a classic of the Broadway stage and has been made both in silent and talking screen versions. Others in the cast are Erin O'Brien Moore, Eric Blore, Moroni Olsen, Grant Mitchell, Henry Travers, Murray Alper and Harry Beresford.

The action of the play all takes place within a few hours on a mid-winter night at a deserted mountain inn, where Raymond as Magee, writer, has retreated to turn out a new book. Believing the place to be deserted, himself in possession of the only key to the place, he anticipates peace and instead plunges into a nest of gangsters and other intruders whose frantic pursuit of an elusive fortune leads to far stranger incidents than he ever created for his books.

An extra added attraction with the mystery feature is the ringside films of the Joe Louis-Paulino Uzcudun boxing event at Madison Square garden.

Ginger Rogers and George Brent will be seen for the last time tonight at the State in "In Person". The Grand offers a western, starring Buck Jones in "Sunset of Power" (Universal) with Muriel Evans and lovely Dorothy Dix. "Sunset of Power" tells the story

Gene Raymond and Margaret Callahan, stars of "Seven Keys to Baldpate", showing at the State Friday only.

NEW LIGHTING SCHEDULE FILED

Suburban, Rural Areas in Youngstown Division Are Affected

A.—A base bill will be established as the bill under the immediate rate for each month of the year 1935. New customers first connected during this period or thereafter will be billed under the immediate rate until the first twelve months have elapsed to establish the base bill.

This will not affect customers in Salem, Lisbon and Leetonia where base bills have been established.

B.—The immediate rate applies whenever the bill under the immediate rate is equal to or less than the base bill.

C.—The objective rate applies whenever the bill under the objective rate is equal to or greater than the base bill, except that whenever such bill is less than the base bill the base bill will be applied.

Commercial Schedule

The commercial lighting schedules in the suburban and rural territory will be simplified by the application of a block rate similar in form to the block rate developed for Youngstown. In this rate there is no demand charge or consideration of the size of the customer's load, except in the application of the minimum charge.

The new rate will be as follows:

6c net per kw-hr. first 100 kw-hrs.
5c net per kw-hr. next 500 kw-hrs.
4.5c net per kw-hr. next 500 kw-hrs.
4c net per kw-hr. next 1900 kw-hrs.
3c net per kw-hr. over 3000 kw-hrs.

Minimum Charge

$1.00 net for the first 5 kw. of connected load.
50c net for each additional kilowatt of connected.

A new optional rate of benefit to long hour users will also be made available in the suburban and rural territory.

available in the suburban and rural territory.

The new optional rate will be—

6c net per kw-hr.—first 60 hours use of active load

5c net per kw-hr.—next 60 hours use of active load

2c net per kw-hr.—next 80 hours use of active load

1.5c net per kw-hr.—over 200 hours use of active load

Minimum charge—the same as applied in the block rate above.

Secondary Power Rates

The new secondary power rates for Youngstown, as well as the suburban and rural territory will follow the same plan as adopted for commercial lighting schedules. The regular secondary power schedules will be the same as the commercial lighting schedules, except for a small difference in the application of the minimum charge.

The optional secondary power rates benefiting long hour users will follow the same principles as adopted in the commercial lighting schedules, i. e., simplification of the rate structure eliminating demand charges.

Where rural lines have been extended under the provisions of public utilities commission order No. 110, where the company pays all the expense of building such lines, and under which the customers guarantee minimum monthly revenue in the amount of 2% of the cost of the extension, the company will reduce the guarantee to 1 1/2%.

This reduction affects all existing lines as well as lines to be built in the future. Furthermore, the company has adopted the policy of permitting the guarantee period to expire at the end of four years, after which the regular tariff minimum applies. These changes have been made in the interest of rural electrification, and in addition to the rate reductions, represent material saving to farmers using Ohio Edison service.

The above reductions amount to over $200,000 per year in Youngstown and Akron divisions. About $115,000 per year of this amount goes to customers in the Youngstown Division.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed the Morning After to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Why QUALITY CLEANING PAYS

The cleaning methods he uses are those that have been tested and proved by scientists to be the most thorough in their cleansing abilities and to be the safest methods to use for both the type and the color of any certain cloth.

He keeps down his operating costs, and subsequently your cost, by doing a perfect job on each garment the first time it is cleaned. No waste of time or money in correcting an imperfect cleaning job.

His field is unlimited . . . he is able not only to clean wearing apparel but to give valuable assistance during house-cleaning.

Modern Cleaning Methods Remove

Stains and Spots.. Safely, Economically

A slip at the dinner table, an accident at the office . . . and your best silk dress or your new tweed suit is apparently ruined. But is it? Not if you put the garment in the hands of a modern cleaner. For he, and he alone, has a sufficient knowledge of fabrics, and the particular types of cleaning materials that are best and safest to use on them. In every case, his skill both renews a garment and makes it last years longer.

FERMENT

Sen. Borah's aggressive drive for Republican delegates sympathetic to him and to his political views has started a ferment in the Republican party. The unity which the party needs to make itself an effective opposition to the Roosevelt administration is threatened with a dangerous schism.

There are many aspects to the situation which has developed. By considering all of them, rather than one at the expense of the other, the observer who strives to be more of an analyst than a partisan may create for himself a complete picture of a great political struggle which affects both of the major political parties.

Only one thing is certain about Sen. Borah's bid for party leadership. He is trying to prevent complete control of the Republican party by its conservative leaders. He is not known to be an aspirant for the nomination. He is important as a spokesman for a section of opinion. As a possible candidate for the presidency, he is not important as yet.

Fortunately, he has closed the issue between conservatism and liberalism in plenty of time to permit thorough discussion before the Republican convention next June. A compromise is not impossible. The party is in a condition where it can adopt new policies. Both extremes, the conservative and the liberal, have something to gain by heeding the other.

Democrats are enjoying the struggle. They hope Sen. Borah will split the Republican party wide open. If either faction is permitted to prevail at the expense of the other, this probably will happen. But while Democrats are chuckling at Republican discomfiture, what is their own party's condition and its prospect for unity?

On Jan. 25, Alfred E. Smith, spokesman for the conservative wing of the Democratic party, is expected to demonstrate in a speech under the auspices of the American Liberty league the depth and width of the chasm between the extremes of thought in the party in power. Democrats, too, have an old guard and a liberal faction opposing it.

In other words, both major parties are in the same predicament. But the Democratic party has an additional trouble which the Republican party does not have. Its so-called liberal faction is in complete control of the party's machinery. The Republican party is in the throes of a ferment which may culminate eventually in a new political substance. The Democratic party definitely has rejected its conservative faction. The Democratic old guard has been alienated from the party by the policies of the Roosevelt administration. It has been embittered by neglect.

Sen. Borah's struggle for recognition of his views and Alfred E. Smith's bitter objection because his views aren't being recognized rightly should be viewed as examples of one and the same thing—the clash between conservatives and liberals in United States politics. It is a clash which affects both parties. The Republican party, which still is in position to make moderate concessions to extremists of both types, has the better chance to escape a disastrous schism, it would seem. The Democratic party, which is bound to a leadership that is committed definitely to repudiation of its conservative members, must stand on the record of the Roosevelt administration. Compromise, without loss of honor, is impossible.

Republican harmony in the presidential campaign is problematic. Democratic harmony, however, is impossible.

THE CALENDAR ON THE WALL

Has something happened to calendars? Formerly, or so it seems in recollection, the primary purpose of advertising calendars was to please the eye. Modern calendars given away for advertising purposes seem to be designed to satisfy curiosity. The calendar of recollection need not really be a calendar at all, but a lithographer's dream, containing a tiny calendar somewhere at the side or bottom, to be consulted only in case of necessity. It was covered, in fact, with an ornate flap which had to be lifted to disclose the date.

There used to be girls in hammocks, girls affectionately caressing horses, girls in all sorts of graceful poses. There used to be pastoral scenes, reproductions of famous paintings, groups of kittens and puppies and baskets of fruit. In many a house hang framed pictures, which once were calendars.

Has something happened to calendar composition, or do calendars with richly colored pictures still shed their radiance? No one but a drab realist with an efficiency expert complex would want to believe that a calendar's only function is to tell the date. Time flies rapidly enough without glaring reminders of its passage in black numerals three inches high staring down from the wall.

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, January 4

The planetary configurations for this day point to a lively and enterprising state of affairs. But these are attended by some degree of opposition, hostility or aggravating circumstances, which should be forestalled by calm and well-directed action rather than storm and impetuosity. It is an especially favorable time for dealing with combines, secret societies or diplomatic circles, subtle understandings being favored. In private affairs there may be an unconventional occurrence.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively year with much stirring by way of initiative and enterprise, accompanied by excitement, hostility and irritations. This should be composed by calm and wise action rather than strife, ill-temper and impetuosity. Subtlety, tact and diplomacy may bring benefits with combines, secret societies of diplomatic associations.

A child born on this day may be energetic, constructive and impetuous, at the same time shrewd and diplomatic.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—Thoughts while strolling: Where are all those jobs lined up for Jimmy Walker? Morton Downey makes me think of Danny Deever. Three big magazines are to scalp the communistic book critics. When more elaborate bal masque costumes are designed, Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken will wear them.

Look alikes: Henry Luce and Charles V. MacArthur. Reunion suggestion: A round-up of that gang in the New Amsterdam lobby. What became of Diana Wynyard. Off year for the debutantes—all the smart and beautiful women are middle aged. I always want to rub out those II's and III's after names.

Study in impishness: Harry Evans. Tough day for a barber—shaving Max Schmeling, Bill Lengel and Barney Gallant in a row. Or cutting Jay Flippin's hair. Nobody can top Loretta Young in giving a smile that. Or bow from the hips like Dennis King. Sure fire title for a best seller, "Lindbergh Speaks."

Celebrity Harolds: Webster, Ross and Vanderbilt. Robert C. Sherwood walking with a dachshund would be a shot for the photographers. Nobody fits a country boy's idea of a city slicker better than Sailing Baruch. Memory: Weekly removal of the dead bugs from the corner air light.

Doggy name: Emily Post. For the perennial youngster list: Ashton Stevens. New word for the ladies: "gowithits." You know, like accessories. Somebody is always catching me sneaking peeks in the window mirrors. Overheard: "Let's drop into 'No. 21' and try to look celebrityish."

The Americanization of grand opera has been so rapid the general public scarcely recognized it. Lawrence Tibbett is now the reigning male canary. And Grace Moore, Helen Jepson, Suzanne Fisher and Gladys Swarthout are leading female song birds. Miss Moore and Miss Jepson's careers are strikingly similar. Miss Moore came from a Tennessee village, born humbly. Miss Jepson was also reared in a small town, clerking in a store where she was put in charge of phonographs. She married young and a part of her routine was scrubbing floors, doing the wash and indulging other indelicacies of domesticity.

Lawrence Riley, after one year of successful authorship, is among the few playwrights to feather the nest. He wrote the hit, "Personal Appearance," which catapulted him into a $1,500-a-week chore in Hollywood. He put a manager in charge of his play royalties and movie salary and decided to live on $100 a week. All ready he has saved enough for investments that bring him a trifle more than $100 a week upon which he says he can live, heigh-ho from now on.

Here's a literary how-de-do. Margaret Case is an associate editor of Vogue. After she took the job, Frank Case's daughter Margaret article to Vanity Fair. Two Margaret Cases, both working across the hall, and for Conde Nast. No matter that the Vanity Fair Margaret Case married and became Margaret Case Morgan, divorced, married again and became Margaret Case Harriman, the mix-up is still unscrupulous. All is seven and sixes. Even this paragraph is becoming practically pandemonium, for goodness sakes! Anyway the ladies are friends and have endured the mix-up in their mail and identities so long that when someone asks one or the other which is who or who is which they tell them without crying out loud or anything. The difference is that Margaret Case Harriman is now a free lance writer for several magazines and the Vogue's Margaret Case practices restraint in writing by not writing at all but editing. And after fooling around with this so long I'm afraid to answer the door bell. I have a hunch it will be another Odd McIntyre.

Frank Sullivan bought a sporty bicycle for a neighbor's son in Saratoga but the youngster almost did not get it. After sitting around on it for hours, admiring the gadgets, Sullivan couldn't bear the thought of giving it away.

Back in Lindbergh Spotlight

George Steinweg

Abe Samuelson

Two Lindbergh kidnaping case witnesses to whose testimony little attention was paid in early stages of investigation, are again in spotlight as defense seeks to save Bruno Hauptmann from chair. George Steinweg, steamship agent, declared late Isador Fisch paid $300 in ransom money for ticket to Germany and reichsmarks. Abe Samuelson, Bronx carpenter, declared Hauptmann hired him to build the ladder used in kidnaping, but that two other men carried it from the shop.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

THE SCIENTISTS who specialize in the study of so-called ductless glands are known as "endocrinologists." We are greatly indebted to them for our better understanding of these strange but vital organs.

It is pretty well established that our physical and mental peculiarities are greatly influenced by the ductless glands, otherwise known as the glands of internal secretion. It is believed that in some way they are responsible for many of the qualities that mark the different types of men and women.

We meet the very tall and the very short persons; the hairy individual and the smooth-skinned; the irritable and impatient person; as well as the calm, collected individual whose emotions are difficult to arouse. These varying characteristics may be determined by the glands of internal secretion.

Symptoms Explained
These glands manufacture and supply the body with what are known as "hormones." The hormone, a chemical substance, is liberated into the blood stream. It is carried to every part of the body to exercise its own peculiar power.

Of all the important ductless glands, perhaps the thyroid is the one best known. It is located in the forepart of the neck, close neighbor to the "Adam's apple." The secretion of this particular gland besides many other important functions, influences physical and mental growth.

When the thyroid secretes too much of its substance serious illness results. If there is a lack of secretion, a condition, known as "myxedema," develops. The symptoms produced may be mild or severe, depending upon the extent of the failure in function.

The victim of myxedema has a marked dryness of the skin and complaints of vague pains. Parts of the body appear to be swollen; this is especially true of the face and hands. The sufferer tires easily and is mentally and physically sluggish. In some cases the hair becomes thin, coarse and brittle. The voice takes on a harsher tone.

Extract Is Blessing
There are ups and downs in the disease. Always though, it is somewhat deceptive. For example, the patient may give the appearance of having gained weight, yet the scales show there is no actual increase in weight. This is discouraging, yet few other constitutional disorders respond to treatment as quickly as myxedema.

The philosophy of the treatment is simple. Since the symptoms are due to the lack of thyroid secretion common sense says to make up for this lack by giving a substitute for

But I must warn against the indiscriminate use of thyroid extract. It must only be taken under the personal supervision of a physician. In too large doses it is a dangerous and harmful drug. Properly used it is a blessing to humanity. Given in myxedema relief is almost instantaneous.

This extract is made from the thyroid glands of lower animals. It possesses the same properties as the natural human secretion.

HOME MAKING HELPS

WE USED to hear a great deal about the folly of trading in futures. But there is one future that is already part of the present, and as such, is just waiting for us to trade in it. That happy future is the aptly named "Future House," erected under the auspices of an electric home program in the lovely international gardens high up in Rockefeller Center in New York.

"Future House" differs, perhaps, a little in furnishings and architecture from the thousands of demonstration homes now erected or in process of building in communities all over the country. But in the main essentials it embodies the marvelous features common to all the houses.

These include year-round air conditioning, an all electric kitchen, scientifically-planned lighting and wiring and a marvelous handling of space so that 85 per cent of available space is used, rather than the 65 or 70 per cent hitherto deemed sufficient.

Low Cost House

But before we go into more specific details, let's begin at the beginning and tell you that these houses are a dramatic climax to the nation-wide competition sponsored by an electrical concern in an effort to find and develop a basically new American home that could be built at a low figure, and one that could be financed by government-granted liberal credit arrangements.

So these delightful dwelling places, embodying all that we women ever dreamed about, but never expected to acquire, are not demonstration or exhibition houses at all, but are for sale and actual occupation, purchasable from the builder responsible for the house in his community. And that's why we can say that the future is an actual part of the present, when it comes to the home of tomorrow.

There are so many novel ideas in the new American homes that it is difficult to know just what to select for description. The trim outlines of the houses offer much that is new, commencing with the garage placed at the front of the house, near the street.

Dominant Points

The rear of the house, therefore, is a sheltered, attractive area where the family can combine outdoor and indoor living in privacy and comfort. In place of the dining room, that room is used but a few hours a day, there are comprehensive, well-planned dining alcoves. No waste space, lost motion, tangled traffic, dark, dusty corners, no obsolete equipment but every aid to efficient living in all its phases—these are the dominant architectural characteristics of the new American home. As for the scientific equipment, it is the last word.

The lighting carefully planned by engineering experts, offers much of import and interest. Since the living room must function as library, study, music room, sewing room and parlor, its lighting must be entirely flexible and adequate to every need. And this is the great feature of the new lighting equipment, not only in the living room in the house, especially in the kitchen.

But oh! that kitchen, with its electric range, electric refrigerator, electric dish-washer and electric garbage disposal unit! The whole room, although small, is so compact, so efficient, so well planned that it is the ultimate in kitchens, a scientific workshop with beauty and utility happily combined.

Convicts Ride Rods Back To State Pen

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 3.—By "riding the rods," the hitch-hike method and the cushions Alabama's 500 "most deserving" convicts poured back into state prisons today—keeping their man-to-man agreement with Governor Bibb Graves who gave them Christmas paroles of two weeks each.

At Kilby prison here, where 104 were released for the holidays, six were missing this morning six hours after their midnight deadline, but Warden Frank Boswell said some were possibly stranded by high waters and some probably had received extensions.

Theater Attractions

John Boles, Shirley Temple and Karen Morley, portraying father, mother and daughter in "The Little Rebel" will be shown at the State Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

In order that more children may attend, the new Shirley Temple picture, "The Little Rebel," opens at the State theater Saturday and runs through Monday.

With Shirley in this story of Civil war days adapted from the famous play of the same name are John Boles, Jack Holt, Karen Morley, Bill Robinson and Willie Best. Boles and Miss Morley play the child actress' parents. Separated by the war, Boles, fearing for their safety, attempts to smuggle the child and mother into Richmond.

Trapped By Yankee
He is trapped by a Yankee officer, Jack Holt, but Holt surrenders to Shirley's charms and tries to help them through. Their plot fails and they all find themselves in hot water. This time Shirley uses her wiles on President Lincoln, played by Frank McGlynn, Sr.

Bill Robinson, the colored tap dancer, appears again with Shirley and together they offer lively dances. Shirley also sings two songs.

Friday and Saturday the Grand presents Buck Jones in "Sunset of Power." This is Jones' latest western, being released in December. Dorothy Dix appears as leading lady in the story of cattle rustlers. The film contains thrills, found in the riding of Buck Jones and the plot which includes fights, masked kidnappers springing away a bride, warfare among cowboys and the love scenes between Miss Dix and Jones.

PROGRESSIVES FAVOR BORAH

Plans for Committee to Campaign for F. D. R. Dropped Suddenly

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The possibility Senator Borah might win the Republican presidential nomination was credited today with changing plans for immediate organization of a middle-western progressive committee to campaign for the reelection of President Roosevelt.

George W. Kline, Nebraska progressive sponsoring the move, said the organization would be delayed until after the national conventions.

Finds Sentiment Strong
"I find," Kline said, "remarkably strong sentiment, even in the east, for Borah. Many of the progressive Republicans would support him if he is the Republican nominee."

For that reason, he said, it seemed better to defer completing the organization. Regardless of the nominee, Kline said a progressive committee would be formed to work for Roosevelt. But he said many more progressives would join it if Borah fails to get the nomination.

"The progressives who want to support Borah," Kline said, "would not be satisfied with anyone else. If he doesn't get the nomination, they'll be for Roosevelt."

Kline said this statement applied

Broadcasting Head

Major L. R. Lohr, general manager of Chicago's Century of Progress, is newly elected president of the N.B.C. broadcasting chain, succeeding Merila H. Aylesworth.

to Governor Alf Landon of Kansas and also to Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) who has been mentioned as a possible recipient of Borah strength at the convention if the veteran Idahoan is not himself nominated.

The Nebraska said Senator Norris (R-Neb.) had declined to serve as chairman of the regional progressive committee for six mid-western states because he "felt he did not have the time for the detailed work," Kline said, however, Norris would be available to take the stump for Roosevelt at the instance either of the Democratic organization or the progressive-for-Roosevelt organization.

TWO MEN PERISH AS HOME BURNS

Investigation Started In Blaze at Cleveland
Institution

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Jan. 3.—Two men died from burns today and other men and women, rescued by firemen and neighbors, were in hospitals after flames partly wrecked Joanna Home for the Aged last night.

Investigations were started by responding fire officials and fire wardens. Although the cause of the blaze had been determined, the cause of the blaze was not determined.

The exact cause of the blaze was not determined. The blaze was determined.

Boy Discovers Blaze
Albert Ortlieb, 9, a grandson of the owner, discovered the blaze when he had been sent upstairs because his noise interfered with Mrs. Ortlieb's nap. He shouted from a room for drying clothes was seen.

Neighbors broke windows and removed many of the home's contents while firemen were arriving. The front of the house was most destroyed. Fire Chief James Granger estimated damage at $2,000.

Battalion Chief Graham said he found an electric iron in the drying room with the handle burned off. Mrs. Ortlieb said she was not sure whether the iron had been turned off after she used it.

Revival Meets
DRAW INTEREST
Prof. N. B. Vandall, Song Leader,
To Conclude Services Here
Friday Night

Friday evening will mark the conclusion of the services of Prof.
N. B. Vandall as song leader at the revival services at the First Methodist Episcopal church, as he will begin a series of meetings in Michigan Sunday. Friday evening
Prof. Vandall and his sons, Robert and Theodore, will sing as a trio, giving several special numbers.

The Thursday evening service,
one of the most interesting so far,
was well attended, and Evangelist
Dr. L. R. Akers preached an excellent sermon, showing how Jesus bridges the chasm between God, the offender, and men, the offender, through sin. This, he showed, was through the atonement, and he stressed the text, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?"
God's laws operate so that we must use or lose the powers naturally given us. Those who sincerely search for God will find Him, and in Him, will find peace,

he said.
Rev. C. F. Evans, pastor of the First Christian church, and Rev.
R. D. Walter, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, participated in the service. The pastor, Rev.
Herbert J. Thompson, is extending an invitation to all the Protestant churches in the city to join with the First Methodist church in the meetings next week in observance of the annual week of prayer, which is sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches.

He also announced that Sunday morning Dr. R. F. Mayer, of Steu-ersville, a former pastor of the Salem church, will preach. In the evening Dr. L. R. Akers will speak on "The Great Refusal," and the service will be particularly dedicated to the young people. This will again be a union meeting of the First Methodist, First Presbyterian and
First Methodist Episcopal churches.

38-Year-Old Ohio Woman Tells Vivid Story of Kidnaping

(By Associated Press)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 3.—Mrs.
Ruth Starbuck, 38-year-old wife of a radio store owner at Colerain, O., rested today at a "hidden motive" in the stand of the Republican state committee to bar outsiders from the state's presidential primary.

Ed D. Schorr, G. O. P. state chairman, said Tuesday a campaign by Senator Borah to win Ohio delegates at the party's national convention would precipitate "a vicious fight" and will certainly injure the chances for Republican success in Ohio.

McCulloch Replies
McCulloch, former United States senator and active in the Idaho senator's behalf, replied to Schorr
in a formal statement:

"I am dumbfounded that the responsible head of the Republican party in Ohio would openly attempt to deny the friends of Senator Borah a chance to submit his name to the electors of Ohio in the presidential contest. He knows that we have tried again and again to work out some plan that would protect Senator Borah's interests in a fair contest.

"Whether a few organization leaders are for Senator Borah or against him, they are out of their province in attempting by threats of bitter fights to disfranchise the Republicans of Ohio and keep them from expressing a choice for president in the most important political year in the history of the republic."
"There should be no bitterness in a contest that gives the people a chance for unrestrained individual expression of preferences as provided by the constitution and the laws of Ohio, unless there is some hidden motive to be served."

Center Trustees
Will Reorganize
LISBON, Jan. 3.—Center township trustees will meet in special session here Monday evening for the purpose of organizing for the current year.

Trustees are William A. Albright,

Mrs. Rachel Elliott will be the new clerk of the board, succeeding Mrs.
Helen O'Brien.

FRANK PROBERT ENDS 40TH YEAR

Veteran High School Janitor Recalls History Of Buildings

"playing hockey" would report for janitor work.

After working in the present Fourth Street building from 1897 until 1917, Probert transferred to the present high school building which he adds, "was very much needed."

Assistant Hired

The present high school's size warranted the hiring of another janitor to assist Probert and Raymond W. Shinn of 781 E. Fifth st., who had been working at the Columbia grade school building, was assigned to the job. Probert and Shinn have since been the janitors at the high school.

The five superintendents under which Probert has served include M. E. Hard, W. P. Burris, J. S. Johnson, J. S. Alan and the incumbent, Earl S. Kerr. "All of them were fine men to work for," he says. Illness has permitted Probert to work only seven weeks since July 1 but he was on hand at the high school today, working in the newly painted auditorium, and will be there tomorrow for his fortieth anniversary.

NOTICE

On and after this date, January 2, 1936, I will not be responsible for credit extended to anyone other than myself.

Commissioners Ask More Relief Funds

COLUMBUS, Jan. 3. — Approximately 50 county commissioners and relief officials recommended today that the legislature make another emergency 30-day relief appropriation and then set up a 12-month program, which would provide funds immediately for at least six months.

Their views were to be presented later in the day to a legislative committee studying Metzger relief bill providing for a six-month program.

The legislature already had appropriated $1,500,000 for January relief. F. W. Ramsey, Cleveland welfare director said $1,000,000 more should be provided. Cuyahoga county alone, he said, will need from $500,000 to $750,000 to finish January.

ward W. Creal (D-Ky) succeeding Cap R. Craden.

They were sworn in and took their seats amid applause. Numerous bills were introduced before the flareup. Outstanding were those of the administration seeking some discretionary embargo powers for the President, and of the allied veterans' organizations for a compromise bonus payment plan.

Await F. D. R.'s Talk

Awaiting what President Roosevelt would have to say this evening, many of the legislators obviously were ready to go to the mat over whether the neutrality policy should be made mandatory by congress and whether or how to redeem the veterans' compensation certificates.

Under the bill introduced by Chairman McReynolds of the house foreign affairs committee, the President could have discretion as to embargoes on war materials but would be required to embargo actual war implements. Financial transactions with belligerent governments would be barred.

The chamber of commerce of the United States opened up against the compromise bonus bill, contending it would cost $1,277,000,000 more than congress originally intended. House members back of it went ahead just the same.

Deep and perhaps prolonged disputes appeared inevitable on both questions, this being a presidential election year.

Cloakroom talk was quite as much about the supreme court and AAA. None gainsaid that, if the farm agency follows the way of NRA, the political future would be vitally affected.

Although the Roosevelt message tonight was expected to give his legislative program in broad outline, leaders inclined to place more importance on his budget to be forwarded Monday.

The treasury reported a $1,879,000,000 deficit at the end of 1935, compared with the $3,281,000,000 the President estimated it would reach for the entire fiscal year ending June 30.

In good spirits during a brief press conference, he denied himself to callers except for the regular cabinet meeting. The 4,000-word message went to the printers after a final polishing. Then a relaxation period was scheduled, before the time to don his cutaway and striped trousers to go to the capitol.

Sebring Names Two New City Officials

SEBRING, Jan. 3. — Two new appointments were made by the recently elected board of public affairs in a special meeting Wednesday night behind closed doors.

Mrs. Alice D. Knight, clerk, and L. M. Bells, superintendent, were ousted by a two-to-one vote and their places were filled by the appointments of William Santee and Peter Pink.

Other employees of the water and sewer departments will remain unchanged. A. H. Hill is superintendent of the sewage disposal plant. Linden Hoopes and Elmer Zurburg are engineers at the pumping station.

At the meeting Wednesday night, Oliver was unanimously elected chairman of the board. Regular meeting dates were set for the second and fourth Friday nights of each month.

Oliver, Daryman and Heddellson replace James Turner, Stephen Leighton and Fred Shafer as board members.

Warren Man Named Aid to Air Chief

COLUMBUS, Jan. 3. — Ernest Hall of Warren, dean of flyers in Ohio, became assistant state director of aeronautics today.

He was appointed by Major Fred L. Smith, director.

Hall has been flying for nearly 27 years. He taught himself to fly after joining a flying circus at Toledo in 1909. He built in 1910 the first airplane ever flown in the vicinity of Warren.

During the World War Hall was chief civilian flyer instructor at Kelly field. He barnstormed in Texas after the war.

Hall, who has coached hundreds of persons to fly, has never had a serious accident.

He owns his own plane, but has been associated with his father in operating a music store at Warren.

Hall will assist Major Smith in developing an airport program and marking air routes over the state.

Faulkner In Office At East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE, Jan. 3. — Mayor Enoch Faulkner, today announced the reappointment of Herbert F. Lemley as service-safety director.

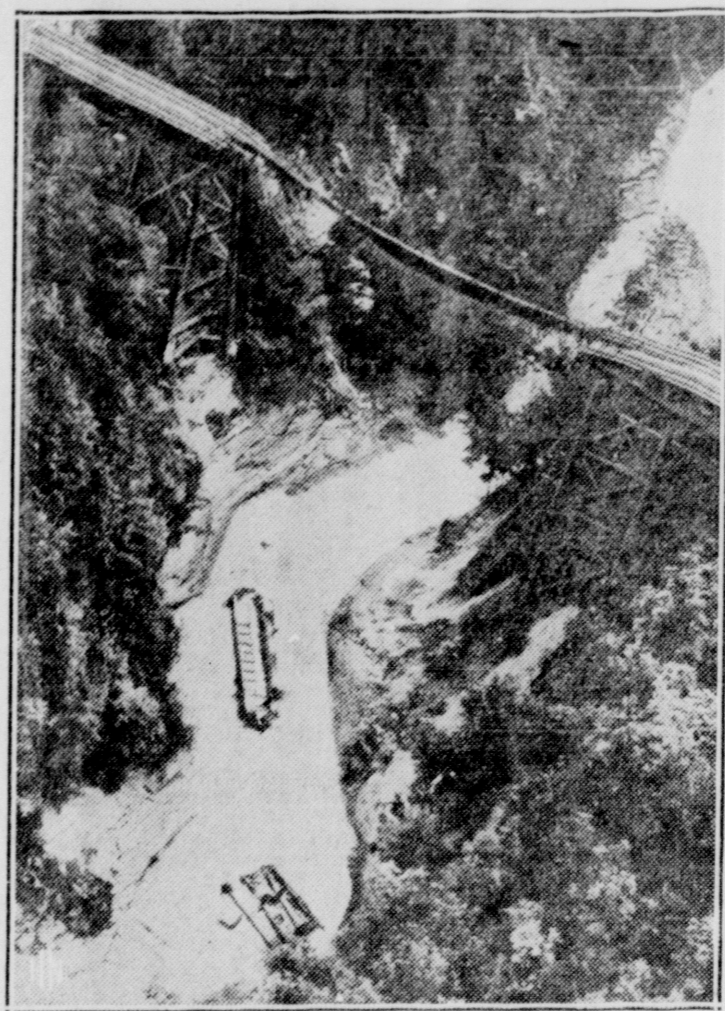

City council will meet Monday night for organization. New members of the municipal legislative body will be Hector Moore, formerly of East Liverpool, who will become a councilman-at-large, and Harry Rorabaugh, Third ward member.

Third Expedition Seeking Redfern

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Jan. 3. — A third expedition worked its way into the Guiana jungles today, joining the search for Paul Redfern, American aviator who was lost in a 1927 flight from the United States to Rio de Janeiro.

Reports from Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, said the fresh expedition, headed by H. Van Leyden, leader of the Netherlands section of a boundary commission, followed two others which entered the bush in December, seeking the missing aviator, and have not been reported recently.

Call Witnesses for Grand Jury Session

LISBON, Jan. 3. — Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lafferty today summoned 75 witnesses to appear before the January grand jury at 10 a. m. Monday.

Probably 30 cases will be investigated by the jury, and it is expected the session will continue about four days.

The September term of court will be adjourned by Judge W. F. Jones at 10 a. m. Monday, and immediately following, the new term of court will be opened and grand jurors sworn.

Quarantine Lifted At Lisbon CCC Camp

LISBON, Jan. 3. — A quarantine established by the county board of health at the CCC camp west of here in Center township has been lifted, no additional cases of scarlet fever having developed in the last 10 days.

It was reported by the health office here today that 20 cases of scarlet fever now exist in rural communities that are under the supervision of the county health board. However, only one death has been reported from this cause. It is said.

FLORIDA GOAL OF 27 CLUBS IN TRAINING TREK

Five Teams To Be Represented During Spring Season

(By United Press)
MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 3.—At least 27, and possibly 30, major and minor league baseball teams will train in Florida next spring.
Headed by the World Champion Detroit Tigers, who will train at Lakeland again, the teams will bring more than 600 players to the state for the training season which begins late in February and closes early in April. It is estimated that 15 exhibition games will be played.
The baseball trek starts soon after Christmas, although many players spend the entire winter season in Florida and scores of them go home in the state.
By mid-February the trek will be on in earnest and late in that month the clubs, including officials and attaches, come in for the training grind.

Sessions Open to Public
Training periods usually begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and last until about 2 o'clock. They are open to the public and scores of fans avail themselves of this opportunity to see their favorites in action.
Practice includes limbering-up exercises, batting, pitching and fielding workouts, base-running, and other features.
It is estimated that more than $500,000 is spent by clubs during the training season in Florida, which baseball men have come to regard as necessary to a successful season.

Cubs to Play in Florida
The Chicago Cubs, who will limber up in California, will cross the country to play an exhibition series in Florida before moving on to Chicago for the season's opening. Back in 1933 the New York Giants came from California to train at Miami Beach. They shift their camp to Pensacola in 1936.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Instituting a search for a possible successor to Tony Canzoneri as lightweight champion or for someone who can give Tony a real scrap for his title—Madison Square Garden presents tonight an all lightweight card, headed by Frankie Klick of San Francisco and Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y.

Klick, already beaten by Canzoneri four times, encounters the youthful Ambers in the ten round feature bout. If either can win decisively, Canzoneri has promised to meet him in the spring.

Supporting Cast
The challenger may come from one of the 135 pounders in the supporting cast. Leonard Del Genio of New York faces Mexican Bobby Pacho who once floored Canzoneri, in a ten rounder, and Eddie Zivic of Pittsburgh meets Oldo Spoldi of Italy in another. Johnny Clifton of New York and Johnny Bollus of New Haven clash over the six round route.

Ambers, once regarded as a coming champion, is on his way back after a severe setback six months ago when Frankie Zivic, one of the leading Pittsburghers, broke his jaw with a wild punch. Lou spent several weeks in the hospital and then fought his way up again.
The "Herkimer Hurricane" was a 145 favorite over Klick, who has been stepping along as rapidly as when he first broke in as a big time fighter several years ago.

Wesleyan Loses
KALAMAZOO, Mich., Jan. 3.—Ohio Wesleyan was ahead in a basketball game for all but four minutes last night. Those four were the last of the game with Western State Teachers' college, and the Wesleyan forward, was high scorer with seven points.

ALLIANCE CAGE STAR AHEAD IN LOOP SCORING

Douglas Starks, Aviator Forward, Leads Big Six Race

Scoring eight points in a game last week against Akron North, defending state champions, Douglas Starks, star Alliance High school forward, took the lead in the individual basketball scoring race of the Northeastern Ohio Big Six League.
Leading in both field goals and free tosses, Starks has amassed 49 points in five games. Karl Zahar of Barberton who was tied for the first place with Starks dropped to the runnerup position when his team was idle last week.

New Threat
Harkins, Struthers center has become a new threat in the race. Scoring 10 points in a game against Youngstown Ursuline last week, he advanced from seventh to third place. He replaced Klein of Barberton in third place.

Salem High school's high-scoring cagers, Eddie Pukalski and Kenneth Shears, are in sixth and eighth places respectively. Pukalski and Shears have only participated in three games so far this season, while the majority of the other players listed high in the rankings have competed in four or more contests.

WARM-UP GAMES OVER FOR BIG 10

Conference Starts Play For Keeps Saturday Night

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Basketball for the experience will be played for the last time of the season tonight by Big Ten teams, with Indiana's undefeated Hoosiers tackling DePaul in the Chicago stadium.

Tomorrow night the conference will start playing for keeps in a pair of championship contests involving two of the three co-champions of 1935, Illinois and Wisconsin. The Illini, undefeated, meet Iowa's apparently weak team at Iowa City, Wisconsin tackles Ohio State's darkhorse outfit at Columbus. Minnesota entertains Notre Dame, and Northwestern goes to Marquette, in non-conference games.

Additional Games
In addition to the Indiana-DePaul battle tonight, Michigan plays at the University of Toledo, and Chicago meets Carroll college of Waukesha, Wis. on the midway.
Indiana, with an all-veteran starting five and capable newcomers, has whipped through five early season opponents without a defeat. DePaul beat Chicago, then lost decisions to Purdue and Illinois. They came back to conquer Wisconsin and Minnesota.
Michigan, weak for several seasons, looked good last night, outpointing Butler, 26 to 23, at Indianapolis for their sixth straight victory. Butler previously had tipped over Purdue's hard-driving sharpshooters, 41 to 39.

Saxons Play At Cleveland East

Coach Pete Sanders' Salem Saxon quintet will make its first appearance on an out-of-town floor tomorrow night when it tangles with Cleveland East in a Saxon league game at Cleveland.

The Sanders' team has won two games so far this season in league competition while it has lost one. The undefeated Salem Saxon girls team will also play at Cleveland in a preliminary to the boys contest.

SCHLITZ STARS AS MOUNT WINS

Score Tied Three Times During Play In First Half

ALLIANCE, O., Jan. 3.—Led by Evan Schlitz, Mount Union's basketball team took a 46 to 42 decision over Ohio university last night. Schlitz, a forward, scored 22 points.

The score was tied three times during the first half at 13 to 13, 21 to 21 and 23 to 23. In the second half the count was deadlocked at 25 to 25, but thereafter the Mounts held the edge.

With about six minutes to play Mount Union led, 40 to 33. The Mounts held the edge, 46 to 37, when Malukas sank two fielders and may meshed a free throw to give the Bobcats their 42 points.

OLYMPIC TRACK TRIALS LISTED

Struggle for Places Begins With Indoor Meet Saturday

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Amid snow covered surroundings, the struggle for places on the United States Olympic track and field team starts tomorrow at the first indoor meet of the "Olympic year."

While it is not considered one of the "big" meets, the annual games of the Columbus Council, Knights of Columbus, in Brooklyn long has held the honor of opening each year's broad-track season and has produced from time to time some notable performances.

"Big Times" Take Part
A few "big time" performers always take part along with the stars of the Metropolitan district.
The Olympic prospect gives a special flavor of interest to tomorrow's meet. The winners will not be assured of places on the Olympic squad, but it will give them a good start in that direction.

Three of last year's "big four" of middle distance running, Chuck Hornbostel of Indiana, now a graduate student at Harvard; Glenn Cunningham, the famous Kansan, and Gene Venzke, Pennsylvania's perennial also-ran, are entered in the 800 meter special.

Detroit Wins
AKRON, Jan. 3.—Akron lost a close one to Detroit university's cagers, 44 to 43, last night.

17 COUNTIES TO ADD TEAMS IN CAGE TOURNEY

Added Representation Is Voted By State Board

COLUMBUS, Jan. 3.—H. R. Townsend, High school athletic commissioner, announced today that 17 counties will have one more entrant in district basketball meets this season than they had a year ago.
The state board of control voted the added representation. Under the old regulations counties were allowed one team in the district tournaments for each four teams in the county. Under the new set-up counties with four teams will qualify one, counties with seven will qualify two, and those with 11 will qualify three.

List Counties
Counties gaining a representative are: Franklin and Knox in the central district; Carroll in the eastern; Ashland, Summit, Wayne and Ashland in the northeast; Huron, Lucas, Allen and Williams in the northwest; Athens and Ross in the southeast; and Butler, Champaign, Clinton and Shelby in the southwest.

The board has decided that the central district Class A cage event is to be at Delaware, with the Class B tourney at Westerville.

Eastern district Class A events will be at Dennison and Dillonville the first week, and finish at Dennison the following week. Class B, tourneys in the eastern district are slated at Cadiz, Dover, Marietta and New Concord. Each meet will qualify two teams for the district finals at Dennison the next week.

Southeastern district Class A teams will meet at Athens, with the B tournament scheduled at Chillicothe and Portsmouth. No action has been taken on locating the tournaments in the other three districts.

16 Teams in State Meet
The districts will send Class A and Class B representatives to Columbus, March 19, 20 and 21 for the state tournament. The state meet set-up has been changed, with 16 teams in each class taking part in the title fight, and the consolation event eliminated.

Officials will get a "break" this year. The board decided to use six the first day, and four the last two days, rotating them so that all will get a rest.

Cincinnati, Fremont and Cleveland have been booked for district swimming meets, but another site in northeastern Ohio is being sought.

Two new members of the state board, Lloyd M. Kaufman of Atica, and C. M. Sims of Piqua, have taken office as the result of recent state-wide elections. A. B. Weiser of Canal Winchester is the new president of the board, and R. F. Schlitz, a forward, scored 22 points.

Townsend said a recent Ohio conference ruling that no league college could sponsor high school athletic events unless invited by the High school association, would have little effect. He said he would issue such an invitation to any college desiring to hold either basketball tournaments, swimming meets or track events.

BUCKEYES OPEN BIG 10 CAMPAIGN

Meet Wisconsin In Tilt At Columbus Tomorrow Night

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3.—Ohio State basketball players open their western conference season here tomorrow night against Wisconsin to headline the Ohio program for the night.

Miami goes to Dayton for the only Buckeye conference game, marking the latter squad's entrance into the loop.

In the Ohio conference, Case will clash with John Carroll at Cleveland.

Three other games are scheduled Saturday, Ohio U. at Akron Good-year, Oberlin at Buffalo, and Ohio Wesleyan at Western Reserve.

Five are slated at Buffalo, and Ohio Wesleyan at Western Reserve. Five are slated for tonight's program, with Kenyon at Franklin, Ohio U. at Ohio college of Chiro-pody, Oberlin at Colgate, Michigan at Toledo and Alumni at Cincinnati.

LOUIS-UZCUDUN PICTURES HERE

Ringside Shots of Brown Bomber's Knockout to Be Shown

The Joe Louis-Paulino Uzcudun heavyweights fight in which the Brown Bomber sent the Spanish woodchopper to the mat in the fourth round, will be dramatized at the State theater tonight when ringside pictures of the bout are shown as a special added attraction to the feature picture.

Louis, who was recently selected as the outstanding athlete of 1935 by an Associated Press poll and sports writers over the nation, was the first boxer to win by a knockout over the Spaniard. Previous to his match with the Detroit Negro, Uzcudun had never been floored during a bout.

The punch that Louis uncorked to floor the Spaniard was so paralyzing that it drove one of Uzcudun's teeth through his upper lip.

"WIFE IN CUSTODY" by BEATRICE LUBITZ

CHAPTER XXVIII

Helen expected her baby in March. It was a particularly bitter March, a March of constant rain and high wind. She couldn't venture out very often, but she loved the house. Everything in it gave her pleasure. The lamp that Dirk and she admired once in a shop and which later came as a wedding gift from Irene and Dirk. The chintz-covered couch, the open bookshelves, the brass fire set, the gleaming silver on the buffet, the deep-seated fireside chair. She'd move a table, then sit for hours studying the effect.

She sat on the cushioned window seat and looked out of the window at the bleak countryside. How blighted and dead it looked—as if it would never come to life again. The garden, once a dear and cozy retreat, was now as bleak as the barren fields. Brown burdock leaves covered the hydrangea bushes and shrubs. The swimming pool was an ugly bare opening in the ground with its exposed pipes and sewer holes. The naked weeping willows shivered and wept in the slanting rain.

She turned from the window seat to contemplate her living room. Anton brought in a basketful of logs and started a fresh fire. Marie in the dining room sang lustily as she laid the table. Helen turned on the lamps and the room sprang into life. The pungent smell of food escaped from the kitchen each time that Marie kicked the door open in her trips between kitchen and dining room.

"Light the fireplace in the dining room, Anton."

"It's pretty warm in here, Mrs. Riley."

"Turn down the heat then. The open fires are so lovely."

"As you say, Mrs. Riley. It does look nice at that, eh?"

As the days grew closer and closer to her confinement, Helen grew more and more uncomfortable. Twice she telephoned Walter.

"I think I'm ready," she quavered. Her bag was packed and Miss Fredericks, the nurse who had been engaged a month in advance, was ready to take her to the hospital.

Twice Walter dropped everything and rushed home but each time it was a false alarm.

"I'll cry 'wolf wolf' so often that after a while you won't believe me, Walter," Helen said shamefacedly.

He kissed her. He was as nervously expectant as she. "I'd better stay home these next few days to be here in emergency."

Evenings they played three-handed bridge. Miss Fredericks was a card shark. She knew card tricks and all sort of card games. She had a breezy, reassuring manner and it was comforting having her about in her crisp uniform even though, as Helen in bed with Walter giggled later in the evening, "she was an awful bore."

The approaching date the doctor had named passed and now it was due just any day. On Wednesday there was a flurry of snow and a bleak wind. Walter decided to stay at home with Helen. The day passed agreeably. Helen felt better than she had for days. They played cards and listened to Miss Fredericks' rather frenzied piano playing.

At dinner the phone rang and Anton called Walter.

In the dining room Helen heard him cry out with horror, "Good lord, when!"

She rushed in.

"What is it, Walter?"

"It's Stella. Jerry ran off with one of the girls in the shop. Stella is frantic," he said swiftly. He turned his attention again to the phone.

"Hello, Agnes, what did you say?"

"Screaming her head off, eh? Poor kid. Can't you soothe her, Agnes? Oh, lord, I forgot! What a pity. Gee, I'm sick over it."

"Why, Stella is going to have a baby in July. Oh, poor Stella!" Helen cried, her eyes filling with tears.

"I can't possibly, Agnes," Walter was protesting. "Helen expects to be rushed to the hospital any moment."

Helen felt herself growing hot and cold.

"I know the nurse is here but I can't leave her. The baby may come tonight. Listen, Agnes, please. Call a doctor at once. No, better yet, get her over to mother's. Call Irene. Make her calm herself. I'll call you in an hour to see how she is. No, I won't go after him. If he's gone he's gone. I don't be a fool, Agnes. The main point is to calm Stella."

"Hello, hello. . . . Damn it, she hung up on me!"

He couldn't get her back. In the next half hour he called all his sisters and his mother to get the facts. Helen sat in the big chair by the desk listening. Her face was pale. She had no pain now for her penicillin in the hour she needed her husband most! Poor Stella.

Walter was talking to Ethel. The facts were simple enough. Jerry drew out of the bank every cent they had in their joint account and had run off with Wistaria Micou, one of the beauticians in his salon.

He had left a note. Her face was pale. She had no pain now for her penicillin in the hour she needed her husband most! Poor Stella.

Walter was talking to Ethel. The facts were simple enough. Jerry drew out of the bank every cent they had in their joint account and had run off with Wistaria Micou, one of the beauticians in his salon.

He had left a note. Her face was pale. She had no pain now for her penicillin in the hour she needed her husband most! Poor Stella.

were't so far out." He got up and began to pace up and down, his forehead a riot of worried lines. Helen remained kneeling on the floor.

"Still, dear, what could you do? She is probably inconsolable, but your sisters and mother are surely doing everything that can be done for her, comforting her all they can."

"Yes, I suppose that's so. Only they've always depended on me. I'm really the only man in the family. They've always turned to me in emergencies."

"You're the only man in my family, too," Helen said. She got to her feet unsteadily and sat down again in the big chair.

Walter sat down staring moodily at the phone. The only sound in the room was the crackling of the logs burning in the grate. Helen closed her eyes and tried to feel sorry for Stella. She looked suddenly at Walter. He was hunched up in his chair. Of course, he was sorry for his sister. Helen stifled the little voice that kept whispering that Walter was nearly ready to leave her to go to Stella. Nonsense! He wouldn't dream of doing such a thing! He was her husband. How could he be so selfish as to expect her not to grieve for Stella. Surely he could do that! But he wouldn't leave her to go to Stella. A little spark of triumph flashed through her heart. He was hers now, hers completely. She could afford to be generous.

"Walter, why not have Stella out here while I'm in the hospital? Marie will take such good care of her and you'll be here every day and Stella won't be lonesome. A change now from her surroundings which must be so painful will do her good."

"Gee, that's a swell idea, Helen. What a peach you are! Besides, she'll be glad to get away from the others. They have hearts of gold. They may say things to hurt her, whereas here she'll be alone with me and I always could handle her! I'll call Dirk and ask him to arrange to bring her out here tomorrow. He's so dependable and so calm. She respects him. He'll get her here. I'll tell him just to put her on the train and I'll drive down to the station and get her. Gee, Helen, you're an angel and a wonder!" He came to her side and kissed her.

The phone rang suddenly, loudly. The room seemed to shudder at the sound.

Walter lifted the receiver. "What?" he cried. "Good Lord! I'll be right there. Is she dead? Oh, my lord!" With shaking hands he replaced the receiver.

"What is it, Walter? Quickly, speak!" Helen cried.

He was trembling violently. "They just got into the kitchen in time. She had a gas pipe in her mouth. She's unconscious. She tried to commit suicide. They've sent for a pulmotor. I've got to go. Helen, I'll drive like mad. I'll be there in two hours. That's nine. It's seven now. I'll stay only half an hour and I'll be back by eleven. I've got to go Helen. She may die. Oh, lord, suicide! I've got to go now. Miss Fredericks, do you think my wife will be all right?"

"Don't worry, Mr. Riley. If the pains come on I'll take her right to her room at the hospital. Dr. Johnson will be there in a second. Anton will drive us. You have nothing to worry about."

"She needs me, Helen. You hear, Anton will drive you. He's a better driver than I am. Miss Fredericks is here. The doctor will be at the hospital when you get there. Besides I'll be back by eleven. I'll leave you the big car. I'll take the Chevy. Anton, Anton back out the Chevy for me. Oh, Helen, dearest, I'll be back in a few hours, maybe less. The birth may not even take place tonight." He laughed hollowly. "We've had so many false alarms. You understand, don't you, dear?"

"Good-bye, dear, you don't mind my going, do you? You want me to go, don't you? Kiss me, darling. I'll be back in a few hours, I'll be back before the fire burns out in the fireplace. You'll have Miss Fredericks and Anton and Marie. Poor Stella! Gas! Oh, Lord—Good-bye, darling." He kissed her. "Don't worry. I'll phone you as soon as I reach New York. Good-bye, I'll be right back. . . . He was gone."

Helen said no word.

"Shall we play twenty-one," Miss Fredericks said in her calm professional voice. "Would you rather have me read to you?"

Helen's lips were white. "We'll play twenty-one," she whispered. To Be Continued
